

Water
FREQUENCY

ELLEN ERCOLINI

WHO YOU ARE

You are a born philosopher and creator. Deep like the ocean and strong like its waves, you're an exceptional explorer - it's unacceptable for you to not have time and space to freely explore. You spend a lot of time thinking about the bigger picture: what it all means, why we're here, and what the meaning of life is

You lovely, are on the WATER frequency!

Going with the flow is your recipe for success.

NATURAL TALENTS

You're someone whose opinion is sought after and respected because you are a known deep thinker. You see tremendous possibility everywhere and your mind is constantly looking at things from every angle. You can be incredibly independent and a natural risk taker.

You understand that life ebbs and flows, and you have a natural ability to move easily with life changes and also be a life raft for those around you.

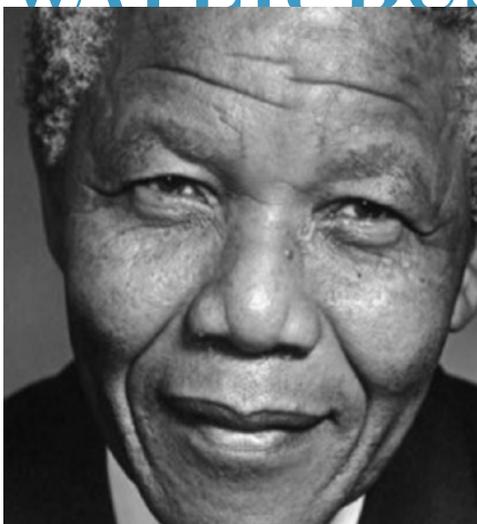

tools for business growth

Containers are your friend. Think about what happens when you dump out a cup of water: it spills everywhere and into everything. It needs a container; a cup, a bathtub, the banks of a river, sandy beach shores. Without a container water is unfocused and, let's face it, messy. It becomes spread way too thin.

To stop yourself from spreading too thin, and help you focus your power into your work, create good containers for yourself such as calendaring tools, trusted relationships (like a super strong assistant), or dedicated office space.

You're incredibly good at expressing your ideas, when you take the time to choose your words. Allowing yourself the time and space for revision and precision will help your words land in just the way you want them to.

WATER BUSINESS ICON

NELSON MANDELA

Politician, Philanthropist, former President of South Africa

READ MORE

Water frequency folks are incredibly independent, intelligent and private. They create big things in the world - but on their own timeline. They are not afraid of the darkness or the pain that is part of life. Their words have resonance and impact and are carefully chosen.

They prefer to let their actions speak louder than their words, but when they do talk, people listen. You see this clearly reflected in Nelson Mandela's life.

There's a strength to all of them that lends an air of mystery, endurance and independence. They can often dive below the surface and exist in their own deeply creative worlds.

things to watch out for

Make sure you give yourself plenty of time and space to say what you mean and mean what you say, and to tell people what's going on in your deep waters. If you're trying to have a conversation with someone who is rushed, it's okay to come back to it later when you both have time.

You have a ton going on under the surface, so journaling or other daily habits to let some of that come to the surface are going to be incredibly beneficial to you.

WANT more?

Click here to listen to some specific action steps you can take to harness your water frequency to make more money and expand your business.

CLICK HERE

Text

IT'S FREE

ELLEN ERCOLINI